Prudential Risk Rating

Higher Risk

These are specialist equity funds that focus on set geographical regions or a particular type of share e.g. shares of smaller companies or those that conform to certain criteria.

These risk ratings have been developed by Prudential to help provide an indication of a fund's potential level of risk and reward based on the type of assets which may be held by the fund. Other companies may use different descriptions and as such these risk ratings should not be considered as generic across the fund management industry.

We regularly review our fund risk ratings, so they may change in the future. If, in our view, there is a material change in the fund's level of risk, for example due to a significant change to the assets held by the fund or in the way the fund is managed, we will provide information on the new risk rating. We recommend that you make sure you understand the risk rating of any fund before you invest.

You should also consider discussing your decision and the appropriateness of a fund's risk rating with an adviser.

Important Information

- Some funds may invest in ‘underlying’ funds or other investment vehicles. The performance of our fund, compared to what it’s invested in won’t be exactly the same. That can be due to additional charges, cash management (needed to help people to enter and leave our fund when they want), tax and the timing of investments (this is known as a fund’s dealing cycle, it varies between managers and can be several days).

Commentary

Performance as at Q4 2023 - The UK stockmarket gained in the final quarter of 2023, although it was behind some global counterparts as concerns over subdued economic activity dampened investor sentiment. Inflation continued to decline, boosting expectations that the Bank of England might start cutting interest rates in 2024. In terms of size, small- and medium-sized stocks outperformed larger companies over the quarter. In this environment, the fund gained and was modestly behind the FTSE All-Share Index. The Smaller Companies and UK Equity Growth funds were ahead of their respective indices, while Recovery and UK Equity Dividend funds underperformed their indices. The Recovery Fund's performance was held back as October's risk-off sentiment weighed on investor appetite for recovering business models, while the shift in interest rate expectations from November prompted investors to switch to a growth investment style. By contrast, the portfolio tends to exhibit more of a value bias due to its focus on overlooked companies. A holding in BP detracted on disappointing third-quarter earnings results, attributable to a weaker environment for natural gas trading and a sizeable write-down within its US offshore wind project. Stock selection weighed on the Equity Dividend Fund's performance, most notably in real estate and energy. However, sector allocation added value, thanks to a below-index position in consumer staples and an above-benchmark allocation to utilities, while a below-benchmark position in industrials cost some performance. Detractors included energy firm BP, which was hurt by the weaker oil price during the quarter. Emerging markets investment manager Ashmore added value on the back of a bounce in cyclical stocks. The Smaller Companies Fund's performance was supported by both sector allocation and stock selection. Below-benchmark positions in energy and utilities were beneficial, as was an abovebenchmark allocation to technology. Individual contributors included sofa retailer SCS, which accepted a bid offer at a material premium to the firm's stock price. Meanwhile, detractors included branding and promotional products firm Pebble Group, which issued a profit warning on the back of a weaker end-market environment. Finally, the Equity Growth Fund's outperformance of its benchmark was supported by above-index positions in technology and industrials and a below-market allocation to energy, while an above-index stance in healthcare cost some performance. Individual contributors included B2B media firm Ascential and investment platform IntegraFin while leading detractors included clean energy company Ceres Power and drinks company Fevertree.
