Market commentary

Year to date the FTSE All Share index remains broadly unchanged, falling by 0.3% in July. Whilst instability across Middle East is attracting ever more international attention, UK stock market volatility has remained low, arguably reflecting the lack of attractively valued alternative asset classes, and pitifully low deposit rates. Among the key contributors to performance were Capita, Drax Group and Allied Minds. In its half year results, Capita announced a 10% increase in interim dividend and some contract wins. Drax's share price, having been hurt by the removal of a government subsidy earlier in the year, bounced on news that the government has been instructed to reconsider its decision. The share price of Glaxo fell on the back of downbeat half year results, which revealed increased competition in the US respiratory market. Nonetheless the company announced a 6% increase in quarterly dividend and at the time of writing the shares are trading on a net dividend yield of over 5% (Source: Bloomberg).

Fund strategy

Although equity valuations have moved higher over the last year, within the UK company universe there has been a wide divergence of performance both at the company level and at the share price level, such that the fund manager continues to identify pockets of value. Moreover, he sees potential for Mergers and Acquisitions (M&A) activity to accelerate. Year-to-date such activity has been prevalent in the tobacco and healthcare sectors, both sectors which are well represented in the fund's portfolio. With or without the benefit of further M&A activity, long term returns will ultimately be driven by the ability of underlying portfolio companies to grow their earnings and dividends in what remains a competitive landscape. It is precisely such companies, with resilient earnings growth potential, that the fund manager continues to target.

Investment objective

The Invesco Perpetual UK Strategic Income Fund aims to produce an above average income with capital growth primarily through a portfolio of investments in UK companies. In pursuing this objective, the fund managers may include other investments that they consider appropriate which include transferable securities, money market instruments, warrants, collective investment schemes, deposits and other permitted investments and transactions as detailed in Appendix 2 of the most recent Prospectus.

Past performance is not a guide to future returns. The chart shown above should be viewed in conjunction with the 'Standardised rolling 12-month performance' table overleaf.

- ¹ All fund portfolio figures within this leaflet are as at 31 July 2014 (source: Invesco Perpetual).
- ² The historic yield reflects distributions declared over the past twelve months as a percentage of the mid-market price of the fund, as at the date shown. It does not include any entry charge and investors may be subject to tax on their distributions.

The fund's ongoing charge is charged to capital. This has the effect of increasing the distribution(s) for the year by the amount of the ongoing charge and constraining the fund's capital performance to an equivalent extent.
- ³ The Industry Classification Benchmark is a joint product of FTSE International Limited and Dow Jones & Company, Inc. and has been licensed for use in our sector breakdown.

Investment risks

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested.

The fund may use derivatives (complex instruments) in an attempt to reduce the overall risk of its investments, reduce the costs of investing or generate additional capital or income, although this may not be achieved. The use of such complex instruments may result in greater fluctuations of the value of the fund. The Manager, however, will ensure that the use of derivatives within the fund does not materially alter the overall risk profile of the fund.
