Market commentary

June saw the UK economy strengthen still further: house prices continue to climb (albeit less rapidly); unemployment continued to fall; and projections for GDP growth remained around 3% with both industrial and manufacturing production rising. On the negative side, retail sales fell and inflation still appears to be falling.

Fund commentary

The fund continued purchases of corporate bonds and equities throughout June and ended the month with ca. 2% of cash. The biggest new equity investments were US television and film production and programming company Viacom, US oil major Chevron which is developing important new liquefied natural gas projects as well as Swiss luxury goods company Richemont which is best known for its jewellery and watch brands such as Cartier, Van Cleef & Arpels, Piaget and Montblanc. In fixed income side we bought corporate bond positions in GKN Holdings 2022.

We continued to build on positions in some of the holdings which we introduced in the fund in May, adding to US internet network equipment company Cisco Systems and US based Gilead Sciences which develops medicines for diseases such as HIV and hepatitis C. In addition, a continued favourable raw material situation supported our decision to add to holdings in Japanese tyre manufacturer Bridgestone.

There were very few sales from the portfolio in June. However, we took some profits in Shire as the share price rose roughly +30% during the month on persistent takeover talks. Even so, Shire remains among the top holdings of the fund.
