The Morningstar Analyst Rating for Funds is a forward-looking analysis of a fund. Morningstar has identified five key areas crucial to predicting the future success of a fund: People, Parent, Process, Performance, and Price. The pillars are used in determining the Morningstar Analyst Rating for a fund. Morningstar Analyst Ratings are assigned on a five-tier scale running from Gold to Negative. The top three ratings, Gold, Silver, and Bronze, all indicate that our analysts think highly of a fund; the difference between them corresponds to differences in the level of analyst conviction in a fund's ability to outperform its benchmark and peers through time, within the context of the level of risk taken over the long term. Neutral represents funds in which our analysts don't have a strong positive or negative conviction over the long term and Negative represents funds that possess at least one flaw that our analysts believe is likely to significantly hamper future performance over the long term. Long term is defined as a full market cycle or at least five years. Past performance of a security may or may not be sustained in future and is no indication of future performance. ## Fund managers' report

Within private markets, we started to receive Q4 valuation statements and we expecting further to arrive in the following weeks. In Private Credit, the PIMCO Private Income Fund was up 1% vs carrying value. Within Infrastructure, the BlackRock Renewable Income UK fund was down 10% vs the carrying value as the discount rate used to value the assets was adjusted upwards. The Aberdeen Global Infrastructure Partners II fund was down 1.8% vs carrying value due to FX movements within the partnership. Finally, within Private Equity Truenoord was down 5% vs carrying value.

Most global listed equity markets rose over the month, with the S&P 500 and TOPIX reaching all-time highs. Sentiment was driven by continued positive economic data and results from companies including NVIDIA, driving market optimism on future artificial intelligence growth. While the expectations for rate cuts have tempered, most investors are still anticipating multiple cuts over the course of 2024.

EM bonds delivered a positive return over February driven by positive income generation and FX movements (measured against our currency funding basket), offset by lower bond prices. Asset-backed securities produced a positive return with income generation the primary driver.

Portfolio changes

- There were several drawdowns and distributions from the private portfolio.
- Maj IV distributed DKK 10.7m (c £1.2m), from the sale of Sticks 'n' Sushi, which was the final asset left in the fund.
- Burford Opportunity Fund distributed $1.5m from the proceeds of completion of several underlying cases.
- Healthcare Royalty Partners IV distributed c$575k from payments of the underlying royalty streams.

Important information

Risk factors you should consider prior to investing:

- The value of investments, and the income from them, can go down as well as up and investors may get back less than the amount invested.
- Past performance is not a guide to future results.
- Investment in the Company may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money within 5 years.
- The Company may borrow to finance further investment (gearing). The use of gearing is likely to lead to volatility in the Net Asset Value (NAV) meaning that any movement in the value of the company's assets will result in a magnified movement in the NAV.
- The Company may accumulate investment positions which represent more than normal trading volumes which may make it difficult to realise investments and may lead to volatility in the market price of the Company's shares.
- There is no guarantee that the market price of the Company's shares will fully reflect their underlying Net Asset Value.
- As with all stock exchange investments the value of the Company's shares purchased will immediately fall by the difference between the buying and selling prices, the bid offer spread. If trading volumes fall, the bid-offer spread can widen.
- Yields are estimated figures and may fluctuate, there are no guarantees that future dividends will match or exceed historic dividends and certain investors may be subject to further tax on dividends.
- Derivatives may be used, subject to restrictions set out for the Company, in order to manage risk and generate income. The market in derivatives can be volatile and there is a higher than average risk of loss.
- The Company may invest in alternative investments (including direct lending, commercial property, renewable energy and mortgage strategies). Such investments may be relatively illiquid and it may be difficult for the Company to realise these investments over a short time period, which may make it difficult to realise investments and may lead to volatility in the market price of the Company's shares.
- Investing globally can bring additional returns and diversify risk. However, currency exchange rate fluctuations may have a positive or negative impact on the value of investments.
- In a Managed Wind-Down, the value of the Company's portfolio will be reduced as investments are realised and concentrated in fewer holdings, and the mix of asset exposure will be affected accordingly. In particular, it is expected that the Company's invested portfolio will develop a more concentrated weighting towards private markets assets as the Managed Wind-Down progresses.
- Risk analysis for a multi-asset portfolio needs to consider the interaction of asset classes and how these might correlate, or offset each other, under various scenarios. Once the portfolio enters the Managed Wind-Down, and as funds are returned to shareholders, the make-up of the portfolio will alter and risk exposures to certain segments of the global economy may be heightened.
- There can be no certainty as to the precise quantum or timing of any realisations or returns of capital from the private markets portfolio and, in particular, from sales of the Second Tranche assets (which will depend on prevailing market conditions alongside consideration of the Company's liabilities, undrawn fund commitments and general working capital requirements).
- The Company's assets may not be realised at their carrying value, and it is possible that the Company may not be able to realise some assets at any value. The value realisable on a sale of the Company's assets is linked to estimates and assumptions about a variety of matters, including macroeconomic considerations, which may prove to be incorrect and which are subject to change. A material change of governmental, economic, fiscal, monetary or political policy may result in a reduction in the value of the Company's assets on sale.
- Sales commissions, liquidation costs, taxes and other costs associated with the realisation of the Company's assets together with the usual operating costs of the Company will reduce the cash available for distribution to Shareholders.
