Investment Objective and Policy

The investment objective of this Trust is to secure a high yield from those deposits or short-term instruments in which investment is permissible for a money market fund.

The Manager expects to generally invest in overnight and short-term deposits but may exercise such flexibility within the objective as it deems desirable.

Risk Profile

Credit Risk

This Trust holds deposits with financial institutions. With these investments, there is a risk of suffering loss due to a party not meeting its financial obligations. This risk is managed by monitoring the financial stability of investments and companies, via credit ratings.

Market Risk

Market risk arises mainly from uncertainty about future prices. The Manager adheres to the investment guidelines and in this way, monitors and controls the exposure to risk from any type of security, sector or issuer.

Interest Rate Risk

This Trust holds cash deposits. The performance of the Trust may therefore be affected by changes in interest rates. The active monitoring and adjustment of the investments in the portfolio manages this risk.

Risk and Reward Profile

- This risk and reward profile is based on historical data which may not be a reliable indication of the Trust’s risk and reward category in the future.
- The category is based on the rate at which the value of the Trust has moved up and down in the past.
- This Trust is in category one because it invests with banks and other financial institutions which generally provide lower rewards and lower risks than other investments such as bonds, commercial property or company shares.
- The Trust’s category is not guaranteed to remain the same and may change over time.
- Even a trust in the lowest category is not a risk free investment.

Market/Economic Review

Sterling money market rates rose slightly over the year, with Sterling Libor, the benchmark rate at which banks lend to one another, ending the three-month period to the end of February 2014 at 0.521%. The Funding for Lending scheme, which provides banks with access to cheap money, continues to play an important part in keeping Sterling money market rates at low levels. In November, the Bank of England announced it would scale back the incentives provided to banks to lend to households, in an attempt to curb mortgage lending and divert credit to businesses. The Funding for Lending scheme will instead be focused on supporting small and medium sized enterprises.

In August, the newly appointed Bank of England Governor, Mark Carney, provided forward guidance on monetary policy to the markets. While maintaining its official 2% inflation target, the Bank linked its interest rate outlook to unemployment, adopting a similar framework to the US Federal Reserve, signalling that it does not intend to raise interest rates from the current 0.5% rate at least until the unemployment rate has fallen to a threshold of 7%.

Subsequently, Governor Carney has signalled that a fall in the unemployment rate to 7% would not automatically trigger a tightening of monetary policy. Inflationary pressures remained subdued with earnings growth below the benchmark inflation rate. Indeed, the consumer price index hit the Bank of England's 2% target for the first time in four years during December.

The Bank of England Monetary Policy Committee left monetary policy unchanged during the review year, as UK economic indicators highlighted a marked improvement. The GDP figures for the third quarter revealed that the UK economy grew at 0.8%, its fastest rate of expansion since the second quarter of 2010. The Bank of England noted that most of the momentum is coming from the household sector, but cautioned that it has a wider range of policy tools to prevent the property market from expanding at an unsustainable rate, as it now has direct responsibility for the supervision of banks and building societies.

Trust Review

The Cash Trust aims to provide investors with a low risk, highly liquid cash fund which is supported by a diversified pool of assets. Over the review year, we maintained a liquid and diversified portfolio, with a focus on very high quality names. As inflation looked more contained towards the end of the review year, and recruitment surveys pointed towards tighter labour market conditions, we took advantage of the steeper money market curve which followed the stronger than expected labour market data by extending duration in preferred issuers.

Outlook

Looking ahead, we expect to see the UK economy return towards long-term trend rates of growth in 2014. Business investment looks set to become an important driving force of growth as companies have strengthened their balance sheets through paying down debt and are now in a stronger position to increase investment. With regards to changes in monetary policy, inflationary pressure remains benign and Carney has been careful to not automatically associate lower employment levels with an interest rates hike. In this environment, the portfolio will continue to hold high quality and highly liquid securities.

As we have previously notified, due to the current economic climate, interest rates are at record lows. In this environment, it is difficult for the Trust to generate returns on its cash deposits in excess of the Trust's expenses. Distributions to unitholders are therefore expected to be minimal or zero for the forthcoming period.
