Market Review

UK equities made further progress in the period under review. Investors were encouraged by signs of improvement in virtually all the major economic zones. The recovery in sentiment towards the UK economy was particularly pronounced with economists scrambling to raise their GDP forecasts. The main surprise in the first half of the year was the extent to which the market was led higher by the more 'defensive' sectors. A more normalised pattern of performance was seen in the last six months as 'cyclical' stocks appreciated in tandem with the improving economic outlook.

The major economic event in the second half of the year was the 'will they, won't they' debate around when the Federal Reserve would begin to reduce the level of its asset purchases. After announcing they were going to proceed earlier than anticipated the Federal Reserve then surprised markets by announcing they were deferring their plans. The level of market volatility around these announcements demonstrates the impact unconventional monetary policy has had on market participants – if not the underlying economy!

Portfolio Review

The fund outperformed the benchmark during the review period due to positive stock selection. At a stock specific level the fund enjoyed strong performances from a number of industrial holdings including GKN, IMI and Invensys. GKN and IMI both benefitted from well-deserved re-ratings as their respective management teams delivered on their strategic plans. After a turbulent stock market existence spanning many years – and a couple of reincarnations – Invensys was finally acquired. The holding was one of the best performers for the fund in both 2012 and 2013 – the share price more than doubling in a little under twelve months. Other strong performers included: Vodafone, William Hill, Sports Direct and Ryanair.

The main detractors to performance were the fund's oil and gas positions. The sector – and our holdings – suffered from a combination of poor drilling results and lingering concerns around the long term outlook for the oil price. As we wrote in the interim report we remain unconvinced that the development of unconventional hydrocarbons dramatically alters the longer term dynamics of the energy sector. Nonetheless, we did reduce our energy weighting over the period through a combination of takeover activity and selective sales.

A reduction in defensive positions as they reached our price targets was the main change in the portfolio. Conversely, the financial weighting was increased, notably through the purchases of Lloyds Bank, Aberdeen Asset Management and St James Place.

Outlook

Valuation multiples have expanded, and equities are no longer cheap, but that doesn't mean is no scope for further upside. As long as the global economy continues to heal, equities will remain attractive relative to other asset classes. With the margin for safety reduced, however, stock selection and effective risk management will be paramount.
