Market Review

Most stock markets made decent gains in the twelve months under review. Although growth stuttered both in the developed regions and increasingly in the emerging markets, investors took encouragement from the continuation of central bank sponsored financial stimulus programmes. The sovereign debt crisis continued to dominate sentiment and the eurozone spent much of the year in recession as the growth slump in the periphery nations began to filter through to the region's core. Towards the end of the period there were some signs of recovery however. As the period progressed the US economy gained traction with brighter news on the housing market and employment encouraging investors. Returns from fixed income assets were more subdued with volatility a feature.

Fund Activity

As we became increasingly encouraged with tentative signs of improvement in Europe we chose to add to a number of our holdings. We sold our position in Neptune European Opportunities and established a new holding in BlackRock European Dynamic.

Exposure to Japan was another significant move at the geographic level. Japan's government has made a number of notable efforts to stimulate the lacklustre economy and we believe that sustained recovery could be just around the corner. We made a couple of changes to our holdings and sold GLG Japan Core Alpha to fund the purchase of Coupland Cardiff Japan Alpha.

In the UK we sold the portfolio's position in Jupiter Growth and Income after the fund manager resigned. We added to Cazenove UK Smaller Companies – it has performed well since its inclusion and with the economy showing signs of picking up we expect small companies to do well as they tend to outperform their larger counterparts in periods of growth. We also sold out of Artemis UK Special Situations. We reduced our exposure to Asian and emerging market equities – a shift reflecting our view that prospects for both Asia and the emerging markets appear more subdued than those of the west. In Asia we switched from Tiburon Taipan and added Prusik Asian Equity Income to the portfolio. Aberdeen Emerging Markets was sold and replaced by JP Morgan Emerging Markets Opportunities.

Reflecting our concern over the prospects for some areas of the bond market the portfolio's exposure to fixed income was considerably reduced. Within the asset class we retain a preference for flexibly managed strategic bond funds.

Market Outlook

US economic growth is picking up and the backdrop closer to home is looking more encouraging. As a result we are broadly positive on the economic outlook and equities are currently our favoured asset class. From a geographic perspective we maintain a preference for the developed markets over the emerging markets. In Europe there have been real signs of recovery and should these continue to emerge we are likely to selectively add to existing positions. Our views on fixed income remain unchanged and we are mindful of the challenges and potential risks facing many areas of the bond market. We are underweight the asset class and are likely to remain so in the near term.

Risk Profile:

Emerging Markets Risk: this Fund invests in emerging markets which are less developed and have additional legal and political risks.

Credit Risk: receiving income and capital due from debt instruments is dependant upon the provider's ability to pay.

Fixed Interest Securities Risk: changes in interest rates can affect the value of fixed interest holdings.

Smaller Companies Risk: smaller companies carry a higher degree of risk and their value can be more sensitive to market movement.

Currency Risk: your investment may be adversely affected by changes in currency exchange rates.

Liquidity Risk: the ability to buy and sell assets at a favourable price may be affected by a low level of counterparties willing to enter into a transaction with the Fund.

Derivative Risk: derivative values rise and fall at a greater rate than equities and debt instruments. Losses can be greater than the initial investment.
