

Aberdeen Multi-Manager Ethical Portfolio

Interim short report for the six month period to 30 April 2014

Investment objective and policy

To achieve capital growth. Investment will be primarily in shares or units of collective investment schemes investing in companies in any geographic area or sector which have an ethical, socially responsible or environmental consideration in their stock selection process. The Portfolio may also invest in other collective investment schemes and directly in transferable securities, money market instruments, near cash, cash and deposits.

Manager's review

Global equities rose during the period under review. The outgoing chairman of the US Federal Reserve (Fed), Bernanke announced the beginning of tapering against improving economic data. European equities continued to recover, especially domestically-focused businesses as sentiment improved, driven by positive economic growth and lower borrowing costs in the periphery. However, in 2014 market volatility returned, driven in January by slower Chinese growth data, and towards the end of the period, the Russian annexation of Crimea.

Portfolio review

Over the six-month period under review, portfolio returns were driven by developed market equities with UK and US fund selections performing particularly well. Kames Ethical was the best performer with a return of 3.7%, closely followed by Candriam Sustainable North American which gained 3%. Both First State positions struggled, as their focus on quality remained out of favour compared to value-focused funds. The weakest performance came from the position in Pictet Timber. The fund lost 5.9% as investors sold down real estate positions, given that the exceptionally cold US winter dampened the housing market. In portfolio changes, we sold AXA Framlington Technology, after strong gains in the sector. We re-invested the proceeds mainly in value-based manager Sparinvest, and also across the other holdings.

Outlook

Interestingly, global markets trended higher despite emerging market growth concerns and Ukrainian geopolitical tensions. Focus has now shifted from the headwind of US Fed tapering, to when base rates will rise. However, rate hikes are dependent upon improved economic conditions. For the markets to keep rising, we need to see evidence of stronger growth translating into better profits for businesses. In our recent meetings with underlying fund managers, we were not surprised by lower market expectations, although they were confident that corporate earnings would rise. Hence, although we believe the gradual shift away from loose monetary policy will cause periodic spikes in volatility, we see this as a transition phase in the context of more robust long-run returns.

Risk and reward profile

The Risk and Reward Indicator table demonstrates where the Fund ranks in terms of its potential risk and reward. The higher the rank the greater the potential reward but the greater the risk of losing money. It is based on past data, may change over time and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund. The shaded area in the table below shows the Fund's ranking on the Risk and Reward Indicator.

Typically lower rewards, lower risk				Typically higher rewards, higher risk
1	2	3	4	5	6	7

Risk and reward indicator table as at 30 April 2014.

- This Fund is ranked at 5 because funds of this type have experienced medium to high rises and falls in value in the past.
- Please note that even the lowest risk class can lose you money and that extreme market circumstances can mean you suffer severe losses in all cases. The indicator does not take into account the following risks of investing in this Fund: .
- Investing globally can bring additional returns and diversify risk. However, currency exchange rate fluctuations may have a positive or negative impact on the value of your investment.
- This Fund can use derivatives in order to meet its investment objectives. This may result in gains or losses that are greater than the original amount invested.
- A full list of risks applicable to this Fund can be found in the Prospectus.
