

Prudential Adventurous Portfolio

A sub-fund of Prudential Investment Funds (1)

Interim short report for the six months ended 30 April 2013

Authorised Corporate Director's report

Investment objective of the Prudential Adventurous Portfolio

The Fund aims to achieve long-term total return (the combination of income and growth of capital) by investing mainly in collective investment schemes. Between 60% and 100% of the Fund will be invested in schemes whose predominant exposure is to equities.

Policy for achieving the objective of the Prudential Adventurous Portfolio

The Fund is an actively managed portfolio investing in collective investment schemes in order to provide a well diversified exposure to global equities, fixed interest and variable rate assets, immovable property, cash and / or near cash. Typically the Fund will have a high exposure to assets providing potential for growth, such as equities. Scheme selection is made on the basis of in depth initial and ongoing qualitative assessment of the fund managers and quantitative analysis of the collective investment schemes.

The Fund may also invest directly in other assets including transferable securities, other collective investment schemes, cash and near cash, deposits, warrants and money market instruments. Derivative instruments may be held directly for the purposes of efficient portfolio management only.

Risk and reward profile*

- › The above risk number is based on the rate at which the value of the Fund has moved up and down in the past.
- › This risk number is based on simulated historical data and may not be a reliable indicator of the future risk profile of the Fund.
- › The risk number shown is not guaranteed and may change over time.
- › The lowest risk number does not mean risk free.

The Fund has the above risk number because of the effect of the following risks:

- › The value of stockmarket investments, and the income from them, will fluctuate. This will cause the Fund price to fall as well as rise and you may not get back the original amount you invested.
- › Any investment in international companies means that currency exchange rate fluctuations will have an impact on the Fund.
- › Derivatives - The Fund may use derivatives for the purposes of meeting the Fund's objective and protecting the capital value from risk. We anticipate that the use of derivatives will not materially alter the risk profile of the Fund or increase price fluctuations.
- › Some derivative transactions may be entered into directly with an eligible person or institution (a 'counterparty'). There is a risk that the counterparty may not meet its obligations or becomes insolvent which could cause the Fund to incur a loss.
- › Fixed income securities - Changes in the interest rate will affect the value and the interest earned from the fixed income securities held by the Fund. When interest rates rise, the capital value of the Fund is likely to fall and vice versa.
- › The value of the Fund will fall if the issuer of a fixed income security held is unable to pay income payments or repay its debt (known as a default). A default, expected default, or downgrading will make a fixed income security harder to sell as its value and income are likely to fall. Fixed income securities that pay a higher level of income usually have a lower credit rating because of the increased risk of default. The higher the rating the less likely it is that the issuer will default, but ratings are subject to change.
- › Property - Property investments can be harder to buy and sell when compared to investments in fixed income securities and shares.
- › There is a risk that a property held in the Fund's portfolio could default on its rental payments.
- › Property valuations are provided by an independent valuer and are therefore subjective.

- There is a risk that one or more countries will exit the Euro and re-establish their own currencies. In light of this uncertainty or in the event that this does occur, there is an increased risk of asset prices fluctuating or losing value. It may also be difficult to buy and sell securities and issuers may be unable to repay the debt. In addition, there is a risk that disruption in Eurozone markets could give rise to difficulties in valuing the assets of the Fund. In the event that it is not possible to carry out an accurate valuation of the Fund, dealing may be temporarily suspended.

* Please note that this 'Risk and reward profile' section is based on Sterling Class 'A' shares, the nominated share class.

Investment activities over the report period

During the six month review period ended 30 April 2013, the Prudential Adventurous Portfolio's total return (capital performance with net income reinvested) was 13.8%. This compares with the average total return of 12.0% in the fund's peer group, the IMA Flexible Investment Sector. Past performance is no guide to potential returns in the future.

Investor sentiment continued to be affected by political developments, a series of policy moves and mixed economic data releases around the world. Concern over the eurozone's ongoing debt problems, especially in Greece and more recently Cyprus, also remained a significant factor over the period under review. Taken as a whole, however, investors' appetite for risk was fairly strong over the six months, albeit with periods of risk aversion.

The fund has a significant emphasis on risk management and for this reason the fund manager ensures that the portfolio contains a broad range of different asset classes. He is mindful that investment risks exist and, in his opinion, diversification is the best way of minimising the effects of unexpected disappointments in any one area. In the fund manager's view, the fund has delivered favourable returns, while adhering to an appropriate level of risk, as set out in the fund's mandate.

Contributors to the fund's performance came from the portfolio of equities, or company shares, held indirectly through collective investment schemes. Within the UK and European portions of the portfolio, good returns were delivered by the AXA Framlington UK Select Opportunities Fund and the Henderson European Selected Opportunities Fund. Within the US portion, holdings in the M&G American Fund, and to a lesser extent the Threadneedle American Fund and the Schroder US Mid Cap Fund, generated favourable returns. Meanwhile, contributors from Asia, Japan and the emerging markets came from the Fidelity South East Asia Fund, the Schroder Tokyo Fund, the Aberdeen Emerging Markets Fund and the First State Asia Pacific Leaders Fund.

The fund manager continues to believe that equities are underpinned by solid valuations, despite the strong rally they have experienced in recent months. Although he feels they are likely to deliver positive returns over the longer term, in his opinion, they are vulnerable to short-term weakness. Consequently, he decreased the overall presence in equities with the aim of managing volatility in the fund. This involved decreasing the presence in the UK by taking a smaller position in the Artemis Income Fund and in Europe through reducing the holdings in the Henderson European Selected Opportunities Fund and the Jupiter European Special Situations Fund, among other transactions. He also trimmed the targeted allocation to Japanese equities by cutting back positions in the GLG Partners Japan CoreAlpha Fund and the Schroder Tokyo Fund.

Although the fund manager is aiming for a lower presence overall in equities, he increased the target exposure to the US and emerging market portions of the portfolio, namely by topping up the Threadneedle American Fund and establishing a position in the M&G Global Emerging Markets Fund.

The fund manager is currently targeting an overall equity position of 77%, with around 17.5% each in UK and European equities. In the US portion, the targeted allocation is 12%, with similar amounts in Japan and Asia, and 6% in emerging markets.

The portfolio also has exposure to fixed income assets, predominantly corporate bonds, which are interest-bearing loans issued by companies. Following a review of the risk/reward profile of the portfolio, the fund manager decided to enhance the balance of the fund by increasing the exposure to high yield corporate bonds. These are interest-bearing loans issued by lower quality companies, which typically pay a greater level of income than their higher quality counterparts. More specifically, he increased the holdings in the Kames High Yield Bond Fund and the Baillie Gifford High Yield Bond Fund, which each generated modestly positive returns. The fund manager is aiming for a 10% presence in high yield corporate bonds.

For the present, the fund manager is comfortable not holding government bonds, or interest-bearing loans issued by governments, as he feels they offer insufficient rates of return.

Meanwhile, activity in commercial property was muted over the six months under review. The fund's presence in this asset class, with a target level of 8%, is achieved through the Aviva Investors Property Trust and the M&G Property Portfolio.

Despite increasingly positive economic data from the US, significant challenges continue to trouble the global economy, with growth either slowing or lacklustre in many developed countries.

Furthermore, the pressing need to recapitalise banks and financial systems remains an issue in a number of key economies. Some progress appears to have been made in the eurozone, with measures taken by the European Central Bank to support the single currency and rules for supervising the region's banks, although plenty of difficulties still have to be overcome. Moreover, after a period of broadly stable consumer prices, commentators are increasingly raising the topic of higher inflation over the medium term, in view of the extended period of money printing from the central banks.

Given these uncertainties, the fund manager believes that investors will be particularly mindful of risk management and markets may well be unpredictable in the short term. Nevertheless, he believes that many asset classes continue to represent favourable value and longer term prospects for performance are more encouraging.
