

RLP COMMODITY FUND FACTSHEET

October 2017

Objective

Aim: The fund will seek to track its benchmark, the Bloomberg Commodity Index (BCOM). Capital invested in the fund is at risk and there is no guarantee that this target will be achieved.

Investment process: The fund invests in appropriate derivative instruments linked to commodity markets issued by a range of investment banks. These instruments are issued in US dollars and can be liquidated daily. This means the manager is able to sell quickly if there are doubts over a particular counterparty, for example, on a credit rating downgrade. The fund has exposure to counterparty risk, which means the value of the fund will fall in the event that one of the investment banks is unable to meet its obligations.

In the event of extreme market stress, or for trading purposes, the manager may liquidate the entire fund to hold up to 100% cash. This will affect performance of the fund relative to the benchmark.

Due to the concentrated nature of the fund, this fund is more suited for use within a diversified portfolio rather than as a single holding.

Management style: Passive

Source: Lipper, as at 30.09.2017. All performance figures have been calculated net of the Fund Management Charge applicable to the fund.

The fund volatility figure shown is the annualised standard deviation of the monthly returns on the fund over a 3 year time period to 30.09.2017. Standard deviation is a measure of the spread of monthly returns around the average (mean) return. A higher volatility figure indicates that the fund has produced a wider range of returns over the three year period while a fund with a lower volatility figure has been more stable.
