“The six month period under review was volatile as markets were impacted by a number of factors. The Company’s NAV was down 12.7% over the period in total return terms. This compares to a fall of 13.7% in the benchmark index.”

Chairman's Statement

Highlights

- A volatile six months as markets were impacted by a number of headwinds.
- The Company's net asset value was down 12.7% in total return terms, but ahead of the fall in the benchmark MSCI All Countries Asia Pacific ex Japan Index (in Sterling terms) of 13.7%.
- An unchanged interim dividend for the year of 1.0p per Ordinary share.

Overview

The six month period under review was volatile as markets were impacted by a number of factors. Initial optimism as Covid-19 restrictions were lifted in parts of the region provided a much-needed boost to sectors such as tourism and travel, but soon other events began to influence sentiment, especially the rapid tightening of US monetary policy in response to rising inflation. A sharp increase in commodity prices, caused mainly by the Russia-Ukraine war, raised fears about the potential impact on corporate profit margins. Rising interest rates have led to forecasts of a global recession next year, but inflation in Asia has not been as high as in other parts of the world meaning that the region may see lower rate increases than elsewhere.

The portfolio proved more resilient than the wider market, thanks largely to the Investment Manager's focus on finding quality companies.

Within Asia, the implementation of China's 'zero-Covid' policy and debt concerns in the real estate sector became a focus as their impact on the mainland economy was increasingly apparent. However, the central government did take action to address these issues with an apparent relaxation of some of the 'zero-Covid' rules and the introduction of a number of support measures for the economy.

Towards the end of the period, the Communist Party Congress in China agreed to give President Xi Jinping an unprecedented third term in office, and he reinforced his position by installing key allies in the powerful Politburo Standing Committee. While it is worth highlighting that this could result in better co-ordination of policies, it also led to concerns about a lack of checks and balances at the top of the Chinese government.

The news for investors was not all negative over the period, however. Corporate earnings growth remained relatively healthy and the push for more renewable energy remained firmly on track. Particularly relevant for the Company is the move towards localisation, where companies find customers closer to their base of operations, and a trend towards greater self-sufficiency. While economic growth overall in China slowed significantly, there was still an encouraging amount of activity in some sectors.

Results and Dividends

Reflecting these difficult conditions, the Company's net asset value ("NAV") was down 12.7% in total return terms over the six month period ended 31 October 2022. This compares to a fall of 13.7% in the benchmark MSCI All Countries Asia Pacific ex Japan Index (in Sterling terms). The share price at the end of the period was 244.50p, representing a discount to the NAV of 13.0%.

The Board has declared an unchanged interim dividend for the year of 1.0p per Ordinary share, which will be paid on 10 February 2023 to shareholders on the register on 6 January 2023 (the relevant ex-dividend date being 5 January 2023). As in previous years, future dividends will depend on the level of income from the portfolio and the Board will decide on the level of the final dividend at the time of reviewing the outcome for the financial year.

The portfolio proved more resilient than the wider market, thanks largely to the Investment Manager's focus on finding quality companies. The financial holdings made a positive contribution to relative performance, especially the banking sector in South-East Asia. The companies in that sector include DBS Group and Oversea-Chinese Banking Corporation in Singapore, and Bank Central Asia ("BCA") in Indonesia. Rising interest rates were beneficial to those companies, but the appeal of these banks as investments goes much further than that. BCA benefits from a stable low-cost deposit base that funds its lending and DBS offers a very good return on equity thanks to a clear strategy, good digital infrastructure and the efficiency of its returns. The holdings in all three companies were increased over the period.

Good stock selection in China made a positive contribution to performance, as did the underweight position to the market. The latter proved to be a wise move given the significant weakness in that market over the period. Indeed, the Investment Manager took advantage of that weakness and selectively bought shares at more attractive valuations. Renewable energy stocks, including Sungrow Power Supply, performed well due to expectations that demand for energy storage systems in China and overseas will be even higher than previously forecast. The localisation trend was evident in the positive contribution from medical instruments manufacturer Shenzhen Mindray Bio-Medical Electronics. The company is one of those in the healthcare sector to benefit from recent moves by the Chinese authorities to source more equipment from domestic suppliers. A new position was acquired in Meituan Dianping, which operates a food delivery and local services app and is seeing a strong increase in returns. The company is well placed to benefit as the country moves towards a more service-driven economy and the online penetration of these services grows.

In challenging market conditions, it is useful to have the flexibility to be able to invest across a wide range of sectors and countries. Unlike most of its peers, the Company has the option to invest in Australia and the Board is pleased to note that this proved beneficial during the period. OZ Minerals performed well thanks to its focus on copper, which is seen as a play on the global trend towards electrification. The company's shares were also lifted by a takeover bid from BHP Group during the period, which was rejected. OZ Minerals has subsequently received approval for a large copper and nickel project in Western Australia that makes it an even more appealing takeover target. BHP has since come back with a revised offer that has the support of the OZ Minerals board, so this should stand a good chance of going through, assuming it receives the backing of shareholders.

The portfolio received shares in Woodside Energy through a share distribution as a consequence of the decision by BHP Group to sell its oil and gas assets to Woodside; the Investment Manager has since added to the position. Woodside has benefited from the significant rise in commodity prices but is the only oil and gas holding in the portfolio. The Investment Manager is conscious that the company is a big carbon emitter, but it has a very credible, and clear, carbon reduction strategy. It is also worth noting that, in overall terms, the Company's own portfolio has a carbon footprint well below that of the benchmark index.

Investor concerns about the impact of a global economic downturn on the demand for electronic devices were behind the underperformance of the export-oriented, technology-heavy markets of Taiwan and South Korea. Geopolitical tensions between Taiwan and China were also a factor. Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company ("TSMC") was not immune from these concerns, but, in the Investment Manager's view, TSMC has an almost unassailable position in the sector and remains an attractive investment given its scale and technological leadership, while its shares already price in many of the headwinds.

The Indian market proved fairly resilient over the period. The portfolio is exposed to the country mainly through the Aberdeen Standard SICAV - India Equity Fund, but not having direct holdings in stocks such as Reliance Industries and Axis Bank, which have done well, weighed on performance. The Company would like to be able to invest direct in Indian stocks but progress with the necessary formalities is slow.

Unlike most of its peers, the Company has the option to invest in Australia and the Board is pleased to note that this proved beneficial during the period.

The Investment Manager responded to market events and the changing macroeconomic outlook by adopting a more defensive approach, reducing cyclical investments and taking advantage of attractive valuations to initiate positions in quality companies that they have been monitoring for a while. A good example of this was the addition of Telkom Indonesia, which dominates the telecoms sector in its home country and should prove defensive through the current market uncertainty. Growth is being driven by the greater use of data, the roll out of 5G services, and the rising penetration of broadband.

A number of positions were sold during the period. A sharp fall in construction activity led to the sale of the holding in Shenzhen Inovance Technology. Xero, which is facing a challenging short-term environment in its key UK market, was also divested along with positions in Hangzhou Tigermed and Vinamilk.

ESG

Turning to ESG, it is in exactly these types of challenging market conditions that it becomes even more important for investors to remain vigilant. Experienced market-watchers say that when the tide goes out, companies reveal their true colours through their behaviour and priorities. The Investment Manager has always given a high level of attention to governance issues in the region, and in recent years has extended its processes for the active management of environmental and social risks. Resources are in place within the region to ensure investors' expectations are met. A company's willingness to engage is a fundamental aspect of the decision-making process for investment, as can be seen in the case studies on DBS Group and BHP Group later in this report.

Gearing

At the end of the period, the Company's borrowing facilities amounted to £40 million, comprising a fixed rate loan of £20 million, which matures in December 2023 (with an interest rate of 2.626%), and a £20 million multi-currency revolving loan facility maturing in June 2024. An aggregate Sterling equivalent of £29.0 million was drawn at the period end and gearing (net of cash) was 9.0% as at 31 October 2022, compared to 7.7% at the beginning of the period.

Share Buy Backs

In common with other investment trusts, the Company has bought back shares with the aim of providing a degree of liquidity to the market at times when the discount to the NAV has widened. It is the view of the Board that this policy is in the interests of all shareholders. The Board closely monitors the discount and the operation of the share buy back policy is reviewed at each Board meeting, as well as considering other options for managing the discount.

During the period, the Company bought back 743,000 Ordinary shares, representing 0.70% of the issued share capital. These shares were bought back and held in treasury. The Company's stated policy on treasury shares is that these can only be re-issued to the market at a premium to the NAV per share at that time.

Whilst the headwinds experienced in the period are likely to continue to cause market volatility in the short term, the longer-term advantages of having exposure to growing Asian economies remain very much in place.

Outlook

The combination of rising interest rates, the strong US Dollar, currency depreciation and an increasingly fragile global economy will continue to create uncertainty in the months ahead, but Asia is starting from a better position than many developed economies in the West. A number of countries in South-East Asia are recovering after their post-Covid-19 re-opening, which should help to support earnings growth. The resilient performance of the equity markets in India and Indonesia is another source of optimism, and the Investment Manager is also seeing potential signs of recovery in South Korea and Taiwan as the stock markets in those countries recover from significant selling in the technology sector. In China, the economy should benefit from any action taken by the government to address flagging growth, such as further loosening of Covid controls and increasing fiscal support.

Whilst the headwinds experienced in the period are likely to continue to cause market volatility in the short term, it is important to note that this potentially creates some good opportunities to invest at more attractive valuations, and the longer-term advantages of having exposure to growing Asian economies remain very much in place.

Interim Management Report

Directors' Responsibility Statement

The Directors are responsible for preparing the Half-Yearly Financial Report in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. The Directors confirm that to the best of their knowledge:

- the condensed set of financial statements within the Half-Yearly Financial Report has been prepared in accordance with Financial Reporting Standard 104 'Interim Financial Reporting'; and
- the Interim Board Report (constituting the Interim Management Report) includes a fair review of the information required by rule 4.2.7R of the Financial Conduct Authority's Disclosure Guidance and Transparency Rules (being an indication of important events that have occurred during the first six months of the financial year and their impact on the condensed set of financial statements, and a description of the principal risks and uncertainties for the remaining six months of the financial year) and 4.2.8R (being related party transactions that have taken place during the first six months of the financial year and that have materially affected the financial position of the Company during that period, and any changes in the related party transactions described in the last Annual Report that could do so).

Principal Risks and Uncertainties

The Board regularly reviews the principal risks and uncertainties faced by the Company together with the mitigating actions it has established to manage the risks. These are set out within the Strategic Report contained within the Annual Report for the year ended 30 April 2022 and comprise the following risk headings:

- Investment strategy and objectives
- Investment management
- Income/dividends
- Financial
- Gearing
- Regulatory
- Operational
- Exogenous risks

In addition to these risks, the Board is conscious of the continuing impact of the Covid-19 pandemic in China, the war in Ukraine, inflation, increasing interest rates and volatility in global equity markets. The Board considers that these are risks that could have further implications for financial markets.

In all other respects, the Company's principal risks and uncertainties have not changed materially since the date of the Annual Report and are not expected to change materially for the remaining six months of the Company's financial year.

Going Concern

The Company's assets consist substantially of equity shares in companies listed on recognised stock exchanges and in most circumstances are realisable within a short timescale. The Board regularly reviews income and expenditure projections, has set limits for borrowing and reviews compliance with banking covenants, including the headroom available. The Company has two loan facilities which expire in December 2023 and June 2024 respectively.

Having taken these factors into account the Directors believe that, after making enquiries, the Company has adequate resources to continue in operational existence for the foreseeable future and has the ability to meet its financial obligations as they fall due for a period of at least twelve months from the date of approval of this Report. Accordingly, they continue to adopt the going concern basis of accounting in preparing the financial statements.

On behalf of the Board

Investment Case Studies

BHP Group (Australia)

The Investment Manager has held BHP in the portfolio since 2009, over which time the company has grown into a global leader in diversified resources. It has a strong suite of assets and diverse earnings streams, with organic growth opportunities, healthy cash flow and a solid balance sheet supporting the potential for additional returns to shareholders. BHP is also a good proxy for the structural growth trends in emerging markets, such as China, that underpin energy needs.

More recently, BHP has been undergoing a transformation to enhance its long-term value by reducing the risk of the rising cost of capital, improve its environmental, social and governance ("ESG") credentials, and set up the business to be more agile. It is taking steps to increasingly align itself with future-facing commodities where, by mid-decade and based on the current asset base, copper will make up around 50% of the portfolio. Copper plays well into rising decarbonisation needs, such as renewable energy grid investment and the electrification of vehicles.

Potash is another avenue of future growth. BHP last year approved its Jansen project in Saskatchewan, Canada, injecting US$5.7 billion of capital expenditure into Stage 1 of the project. Jansen has the potential to be one of the largest potash producing mines in the world, providing a rich source of potassium to keep soil fertile and maximise food production. The company views potash's long-term prospects as attractive, given the decline in arable land and growing populations with rising food needs.

In addition to seeking future growth drivers, BHP has also been committed to its ESG efforts, and the Investment Manager is of the view that BHP is an ESG leader in the mining sector from both a governance and operational perspective. It has a credible climate transition strategy and the Investment Manager continues to encourage the company's efforts and progress on this front.

DBS Group Holdings (Singapore)

The Investment Manager considers DBS to be one of the best-run banks in Asia, with a growing Pan-Asian exposure. While Singapore and Greater China account for most of the revenue and assets, DBS is looking to both India and Indonesia to form the next big region for its long-term growth.

Like its peers, the bank has a substantial wealth management business, but stands out with its exposure to transaction services and cards. Transaction services, in particular, are key to its commercial business, leading DBS to become one of the top five cash management services across Asia. Aside from the commercial segment, DBS also owns a leading retail franchise in Singapore and its cost of funding is lower than its local rivals, giving it a competitive advantage.

The company has been an early adopter of technology and automation, offering new revenue streams and cost savings. The bank has a number of new businesses, both on its own and in partnership with others. They include the DBS Digital Exchange, which offers tokenisation, trading and custody services of digital assets; Partior, a blockchain-based cross-border clearing and settlement provider; Climate Impact X, a global exchange and marketplace for high-quality carbon credits; and DBS Fixed Income Execution Marketplace, Asia's first fully digital and automated fixed income execution platform.

More broadly, the Investment Manager considers that DBS provides good exposure to developing economies across the region that give the bank a growth opportunity accompanied by reasonable returns on equity, a steady dividend yield and prudent risk management.

On the ESG front, DBS has been forward thinking in many ways. It stopped financing new coal-fired power plants in 2019 and has committed to net-zero thermal coal exposure by 2039. The company is also focusing on financing renewable energy, raising its sustainable finance target to S$50 billion by 2024 (from S$17 billion currently). The bank has contributed to a more sustainable palm oil sector, requiring new clients to demonstrate alignment with its No Deforestation, No Peat, and No Exploitation ("NDPE") policies.

DBS has been working towards powering 100% of its Singapore operations using renewable energy by 2030 and plans to extend the goal to its global operations.

9. Fair value hierarchy

FRS 102 requires an entity to classify fair value measurements using a fair value hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in making the measurements. The fair value hierarchy has the following classifications:

Level 1: unadjusted quoted prices in an active market for identical assets or liabilities that the entity can access at the measurement date.

Level 2: inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable (ie developed using market data) for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly.

Level 3: inputs are unobservable (ie for which market data is unavailable) for the asset or liability.

The financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value in the Condensed Statement of Financial Position are grouped into the fair value hierarchy at the reporting date as follows:

	Level 1 £'000	Level 2 £'000	Level 3 £'000	Total £'000
As at 31 October 2022
Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss
Quoted equities	273,330	-	-	273,330
Collective investment schemes	-	52,039	-	52,039
Total fair value	273,330	52,039	-	325,369
	Level 1 £'000	Level 2 £'000	Level 3 £'000	Total £'000

Collective investment schemes	-	48,696	-	48,696
Total fair value	325,001	48,696	-	373,697

Please remember that past performance is not a guide to the future. Stock market and currency movements may cause the value of shares and the income from them to fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the amount they originally invested.

As with all equity investments, the value of investment trust shares purchased will immediately be reduced by the difference between the buying and selling prices of the shares, known as the market maker's spread.

Investors should further bear in mind that the value of any tax relief will depend on the individual circumstances of the investor and that tax rates and reliefs, as well as the tax treatment of ISAs, may be changed by future legislation.
