Prudential Risk Rating

Higher Risk
 These are specialist equity funds that focus on set geographical regions or a particular type of share e.g. shares of smaller companies or those that conform to certain criteria.

These risk ratings have been developed by Prudential to help provide an indication of a fund's potential level of risk and reward based on the type of assets which may be held by the fund. Other companies may use different descriptions and as such these risk ratings should not be considered as generic across the fund management industry.

We regularly review our fund risk ratings, so they may change in the future. If, in our view, there is a material change in the fund's level of risk, for example due to a significant change to the assets held by the fund or in the way the fund is managed, we will provide information on the new risk rating. We recommend that you make sure you understand the risk rating of any fund before you invest.

You should also consider discussing your decision and the appropriateness of a fund's risk rating with an adviser.

Important Information

- Some funds may invest in 'underlying' funds or other investment vehicles. The performance of our fund, compared to what it's invested in won't be exactly the same. That can be due to additional charges, cash management (needed to help people to enter and leave our fund when they want), tax and the timing of investments (this is known as a fund's dealing cycle, it varies between managers and can be several days).

Commentary

Performance as at Q4 2025 - Global bonds yields exhibited volatility over the last month as markets digested central banks signals – particularly expectations of interest rate cuts by major banks like Federal Reserve (FED), European Central Bank (ECB) and Bank of England (BoE). Lower expected future rates tended to support bonds prices and push yields down at the short end. In Sterlingmarkets, yields were impacted by Bank of England rate cut and reduced expectations of further tightening. The shift in the gilts market was strongly linked to monetary policy expectations with BoE likely to continue easing into 2026. Pushing front-end yield down by 2 bps. European government bond yields also declined by 2 bps after ECB's announcement; however, overall monthly changes indicate that yields for the month have increased (ranging between 7-11bps). Both the ECB and BoE signaled a tilt toward easing rather than tightening, which eased short-term yields. In the U.S., the fed made another quarter point reduction in December meeting. Ongoing service inflation and resilient labor market prevented aggressive pricing of rate cuts. Consequently, short-term yields declined, whereas long-term yields stayed high.
