Prudential Risk Rating

Higher Risk
These are specialist equity funds that focus on set geographical regions or a particular type of share e.g. shares of smaller companies or those that conform to certain criteria.

These risk ratings have been developed by Prudential to help provide an indication of a fund's potential level of risk and reward based on the type of assets which may be held by the fund. Other companies may use different descriptions and as such these risk ratings should not be considered as generic across the fund management industry.

We regularly review our fund risk ratings, so they may change in the future. If, in our view, there is a material change in the fund's level of risk, for example due to a significant change to the assets held by the fund or in the way the fund is managed, we will provide information on the new risk rating. We recommend that you make sure you understand the risk rating of any fund before you invest.

You should also consider discussing your decision and the appropriateness of a fund's risk rating with an adviser.

Important Information

- Some funds may invest in 'underlying' funds or other investment vehicles. The performance of our fund, compared to what it's invested in won't be exactly the same. That can be due to additional charges, cash management (needed to help people to enter and leave our fund when they want), tax and the timing of investments (this is known as a fund's dealing cycle, it varies between managers and can be several days).

Commentary

Performance as at Q2 2024 - UK equities rose in sterling terms over the quarter, with the FTSE 100 hitting a new all-time high. The telecommunications and basic materials sectors performed best. The market was supported by inflation declining to 2% in May, which matched the Bank of England's (BoE) inflation target. The economy emerged from a mild recession when GDP expanded by 0.7% quarter-on-quarter in the first three months of the year. However, economic data was mixed; unemployment picked up to 4.4% in April as the economy lost 140,000 jobs. The composite PMI weakened over the quarter, though remained in expansionary territory. Despite the good news on inflation, and signs of an economic slowdown, the BoE maintained interest rates at 5.25% over the quarter. A rate cut was possibly delayed due to Prime Minister Rishi Sunak announcing a snap general election to take place on 4 July. There were also concerns that the fall in inflation may be temporary, as wage inflation proved stubborn, at 5.9% in April.
