Commentary

April 2024 Investment Summary

A negative month for the Passive range with returns ranging from -1.05% for Passive 1 to 0.00% for Passive 5. *P Acc share class with data sourced from FE analytics as at 30 April 2024.

April 2024 was a mixed month for portfolios generally

Most major equity markets declined in April as global stock market sentiment reversed after five consecutive positive months, led by the revaluation of interest rate cuts and current geopolitical threats. Although stocks retraced some losses in the latter half of the month. Utilities and Financial Services led the sector-wise performance while Healthcare lagged.

Government bond prices were lower as the ten-year Treasury yield edged up to 4.69% from 4.33% over the month. Resilient economic data has whittled away hopes for imminent interest rate cuts, as investors continue to revise lower their expectations on the number of cuts from the Fed in 2024.

The US labour market decelerated from its strong start to 2024 as government data fell short of expectations to show payrolls increased by 175,000 in April, demonstrating a softening of the US labour market and boosting hopes of interest rates cuts. US consumer confidence retreated slightly in April, as households are still concerned on the impact of inflation, and future business conditions, job availability and income. Unemployment data ticked up slightly to 3.9% surprising market expectations for it to remain unchanged at 3.8% *

Conflict in the Middle East continues as the US has paused shipment of bombs to Israel amid hopes of positive negotiations on a ceasefire and hostage release deal. The conflicts Impact remains limited on the global economy. Shipping companies continue to divert vessels to avoid the possibility of attack, as Brent Crude dropped to over $80/barrel from $87/barrel in April.

Central banks' continue to keep monetary policy tight enough to drive inflation back towards the 2% target, there is growing evidence of a continued softening in prices. Central banks may be in a position to ease policy rates later this year, but employment activity and inflation data over the next few months will be critical to the evolution of their thinking. The US economy continues to look strong, but other regions, including the Eurozone, face more challenging conditions.

While recent central bank meetings have suggested the next move in interest rates will be downwards, officials have been cautious to confirm when these cuts will be implemented, with a careful eye on data to ensure a sustainable route back to the inflation target.
