

VT Downing Small & Mid-Cap Income Fund

July 2023 Commentary

In July, the Accumulation share class was up 0.10% while the IA UK Equity Income Total Return Index was up 2.68%. Key contributors were XPS Pensions Group (up 9.74%) and Foresight Group (up 10.34%). Key detractors included Record (down 11.06%) and Fonix Mobile (down 7.71%).

XPS Pensions, a consulting and administration business, announced that it has entered into an option agreement to sell XPS Pensions (Nexus) to SEI to create a market-leading defined contribution proposition for employers and pension scheme members. The deal creates a strategic partnership between XPS and SEI, under which XPS will provide wide-ranging services to continue to support NPT and SEI. The transaction is subject to regulatory approval.

Foresight, a sustainably-led infrastructure and private equity investment manager, issued full-year results and reported a period of highly profitable growth. The group's predictable long-term revenue model provides a strong platform for continued growth, with recurring revenue of 86.6%. Assets under management increased by 38% and funds under management grew by 35%, driving a 38% increase in revenue.

Record, a specialist currency and asset manager, issued a first-quarter trading update and reported performance fees of £0.5m were earned during the period, and a decline of 2% in assets under management equivalent (AUME). We believe that while the update was largely in-line with expectations, the share price was unduly punished, a familiar feature reflecting continuing poor sentiment towards UK PLC.

Fonix Mobile, a mobile payments and messaging provider, provided a positive update on trading and reported revenue and profit had continued to grow, ending the year marginally ahead of market expectations. The share price has been volatile over the period and the stock represents a relatively large position in the fund.
