Vanguard Global Credit Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide a moderate and sustainable level of current income by investing in a diversified portfolio of global credit fixed income bonds.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Credit Index Hedged, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- Global bonds returned -1.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. US bonds, however, finished in positive territory.
- The fund (which is hedged in US dollars) outpaced its benchmark, which returned 3.52% for the 12 months.
- An underweight to duration helped relative performance, as yields broadly ended the year higher. An allocation to European corporates – in particular, European REITs – also contributed. On the other hand, the fund's bias towards US regional banks (versus non-regional banks) due to fundamentals and valuations detracted, as US banks such as Goldman Sachs and Bank of America outperformed. A structural underweight to supranationals, sovereigns and agencies also detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Short-Term Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Ex US MBS 1–5 Year Float Adjusted and Scaled Index, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised bonds, excluding US mortgage-backed securities, with maturities between 1 and 5 years.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- Global bonds returned –1.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. US bonds, however, finished in positive territory.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned 4.55% for the 12 months.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, underperformed the index as a whole. Other index heavyweights including Canada, Italy, Spain and Australia outperformed.
- By sector, corporate bonds and those issued by financial institutions in particular fared better than some parts of the market, including government bonds.
- By credit quality, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder fared better than their higher-rated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Short-Term Corporate Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Corporate 1–5 Year Float Adjusted Index, a market-weighted index of global corporate fixed income investments with maturities of between 1 and 5 years.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground, and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- Global bonds returned –1.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned 5.65% for the 12 months.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, underperformed the index as a whole. Other index heavyweights, including Canada, Italy, Spain and Germany, outperformed.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions fared better than those issued by industrial companies and utilities.
- From a credit-quality perspective, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder performed better than their higher-rated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.
