

Monthly Fund Review as at 31 March 2024

For investment professionals only

Highlights

• After a more challenging start to the year, bond markets rebounded in March, with positive returns in major markets helping the fund's performance.

For us, the main opportunity remains in duration and we are comfortable retaining a long position here. We believe the more likely scenario for this year is not a soft landing, but a slowdown followed by central banks cutting rates. Therefore we want to be exposed to government bonds and longer in interest rates duration, which we would expect to perform well in such a scenario.

We continued to reduce credit risk at the margin, and we maintain our very selective approach to new issues. We bought additional protection via the credit default swap index (CDX IG). We sold a Thames Water issue that held up well, a bond by office supplies retailer Staples and one by media firm Sirius. We maintained our short exposure to high yield corporate bonds. In emerging markets, we switched into slightly shorter duration bonds in South Africa and the Dominican Republic.

The main risks associated with this fund

For any past performance shown, please note that past performance is not a guide to future performance.

The value and income from the fund's assets will go down as well as up. This will cause the value of your investment to fall as well as rise. There is no guarantee that the fund will achieve its objective and you may get back less than you originally invested.

Investments in bonds are affected by interest rates, inflation and credit ratings. It is possible that bond issuers will not pay interest or return the capital. All of these events can reduce the value of bonds held by the fund.

High yield bonds usually carry greater risk that the bond issuers may not be able to pay interest or return the capital. The fund may use derivatives to profit from an expected rise or fall in the value of an asset. Should the asset's value vary in an unexpected way, the fund will incur a loss. The fund's use of derivatives may be extensive and exceed the value of its assets (leverage). This has the effect of magnifying the size of losses and gains, resulting in greater fluctuations in the value of the fund. Investing in emerging markets involves a greater risk of loss as there may be difficulties in buying, selling, safekeeping or valuing investments in such countries. The hedging process seeks to minimise, but cannot eliminate, the effect of movements in exchange rates on the performance of the hedged share class. Hedging also limits the ability to gain from favourable movements in exchange rates.

Further risk factors that apply to the fund can be found in the fund's Prospectus.
