Commentary

February 2024 Investment Summary

A mixed month for the Active range with returns ranging from -0.30% for Active 1 to +1.00% for Active 5. P Acc share class with data sourced from FE analytics as at 29 February 2024.

February 2024 was a positive month for portfolios generally.

Most major equity markets continued to rise driven by big tech led earnings surprise and growing optimism that inflation will remain under control. Technology services led the sector-wise performance while Real Estate and Utilities lagged.

Government bond prices were lower as the ten-year Treasury yield edged up to 4.25% from 3.87% over the month. Strong economic data has whittled away hopes for imminent interest rate cuts, as investors have roughly halved the number of cuts expected by the Fed in 2024.

The US labour market made a strong start to 2024 as government data surpassed expectations to show payrolls increased by 353,000 in January and by 275,000 in February, albeit alongside a clear slowdown in wage growth, increasing by 0.1% on a month by month basis. US consumer confidence retreated in February after three straight monthly gains, as households worried about the labour market and the domestic political environment. Unemployment data picked up to 3.9% surprising markets which expected it to remain at 3.7%.

Conflict in the Middle East continues with ceasefire talks appearing to stall and shipping companies continuing to divert vessels to avoid the possibility of attack, the market reaction remains fairly muted. Brent Crude was up to $84/barrel from $80/barrel.

Central banks' continue to keep monetary policy tight enough to drive inflation back towards the 2% target, there is growing evidence of a continued softening in prices. This has led focus to turn to the potential for central banks to ease policy rates to prevent further restriction to the economy and the prospect for a global economic 'soft landing'.

While recent central bank meetings have suggested the next move in interest rates will be downwards, officials have been cautious to confirm when these cuts will be implemented, with a careful eye on data to ensure a sustainable route back to the inflation target.

WS Prudential Risk Managed Active - Tactical asset allocation activity

*With continued disinflation traction, alongside the continued positive fundamentals of the US economy the portfolio managers remain moderately overweight equities (+2.25%), with funding from European investment grade (-1.25%) and Cash (-1.00%).
