Investment Policy

The healthcare sector is global and accessing this market as a UK investor can be difficult. The Company offers an opportunity to gain exposure to pharmaceutical, biotechnology and related companies in the healthcare sector on a global scale. The Company invests in large companies with market capitalisations of over U.S.$10bn, smaller companies below that size, as well as unquoted companies. The portfolio ranges from large multi-national pharmaceutical companies with multiple products to unquoted emerging biotechnology companies. The Company's investment policy allows gearing, through borrowing, of up to 20% of net assets and a net exposure to derivative investments (excluding swaps) of up to 5% of the portfolio. Equity swaps may also be used, counterparty exposure here is limited to 12% of the portfolio at the time of acquisition. Unquoted securities will not exceed 10% of the portfolio at the time of acquisition.

Commentary

In June, the NAV per share total return was +3.9%, the share price total return was +5.6% and the MSCI World Health Care Index was +2.6%, on a net total return, sterling adjusted basis.

Upward momentum continued in June for equity markets, following a strong May after a pause in April. The MSCI World Index reached a new all-time high in the month. Tech stocks continued to be the most prominent driver; we note that NVDA moved as much as +30% (local currency) in June alone. The interest rate debate also continued, but investors seem unfazed by that uncertainty as stock markets moved higher. Healthcare stocks traded up in a similar fashion.

The Company's performance came from multiple sources, primarily Large Cap Pharmaceuticals, Emerging Biotechnology, and Medical Technology. Outperformance versus the Benchmark was driven primarily by stock picking in Emerging Biotechnology and Medical Technology. On an individual basis, key drivers were familiar – popular stocks Eli Lilly, Novo Nordisk, and Intuitive Surgical collectively represented the top three contributors in June. Other contributors of import in the month included the small/mid-cap biotech Ionis Pharmaceuticals – on a raft of positive news flow – and the large-cap biotech Sarepta Therapeutics, after the FDA approved a label expansion for the company's lead commercial product, Elevidys, a gene therapy for the treatment of muscular dystrophy.

The main detractor of note was GSK after two separate negative developments. First, the Delaware Superior Court made an unexpected ruling in the ongoing Zantac litigation, permitting all forms of plaintiff expert testimony – in stark contrast to a previous federal court ruling. GSK immediately appealed. Second, a recent meeting of the U.S. Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP) unexpectedly did not endorse usage of Arexvy, GSK's leading RSV vaccine, in the 50-59 age group despite data supporting inoculation of that group. Whilst the stock fell on the news, there will be additional ACIP meetings where this patient cohort expansion will be reconsidered.

With two transactions announced in June, the pace of biotech M&A slowed after an active start to the year. We attribute this mostly to an expected seasonal slowdown. We do note that large cap executives, through the spring conference season, continued to talk up the need to do additional business development, thus we have high expectations for an acceleration in M&A in the second half of the year. Finally, July will kick-off second quarter earnings across the sector. Overall, we look for affirmation of stellar execution of companies in the portfolio and a chance to recalibrate positioning where necessary for the remainder of the calendar year.

DISCOUNT/PREMIUM CONTROL

It is the Board's policy to buy back the Company's shares if the share price discount to the net asset value per share exceeds 6% on an ongoing basis. Shares repurchased are held as treasury shares. Treasury shares can be sold back to the market at a later date at a premium to the cum income net asset value per share. Shareholders should note, however, that it remains very possible for the discount to be greater than 6% for extended periods of time particularly when sentiment towards the Company, the sector and to investment trusts generally remains poor.

While buy backs may prove unable to prevent the discount from widening, they also enhance the net asset value per share for remaining shareholders and go some way to dampening discount volatility which can adversely affect investors' risk adjusted returns.

At times when there are unsatisfied buying orders for the Company's shares in the market, the Company has the ability to issue new shares or to re-issue treasury shares at a small premium to the cum income net asset value per share. This acts as an effective share price premium management tool.
